Primary Source Research | Internship

Kora Management

Kora is a global investment firm focused on emerging markets, with teams in New York, Sao Paulo, Mumbai, Shanghai, Tokyo, Singapore and Dubai. We were founded in 2014 on the belief that independent research and concentrated portfolio construction can deliver idiosyncratic returns.

We make long-term equity investments in financial services and the Internet, two large and growing profit pools where we believe we have developed expertise over decades of investing. Our global team executes fundamental, primary source research to generate the independent insight to maintain conviction over a multi-year investment horizon.

Primary Source Research (PSR) Team

Our PSR team is responsible for developing a deep & proprietary understanding of the most attractive companies in the markets we invest. For this, we combine methodologies such as surveys, expert interviews, publicly available data analysis, desk and field research.

The intern will be allocated to our LatAm PSR Team, being responsible for maintaining current projects and eventually developing new projects. Examples of activities include maintaining dashboards that are key for our research, analyzing datasets from our surveys, participating in firm-wide meetings with Kora's leadership and designing & implementing new projects to track companies.
